

Callan Taylor

Workshop topics: Business Career Community

When not FRANK Teaming: Callan runs his own companies, cjt design, Emphatik, Pink Martini, FUNK card and untouchable magazine.

Bio: Callan Taylor is an energetic, passionate and inspirational young person of just 22 years. Residing in South Australia, Callan went to Xavier College at Gawler before starting his own business at 17 years of age.

Now as Director of his own company, cjt design, Callan produces creative design and marketing for leading state, national and international companies. He also owns a modelling and promotions company Pink Martini with more than 40 young models working for him.

Callan has been the recipient of many accolades including Young Small Business Champion Entrepreneur, Australian Anthill 30under30, Channel 9 Achiever Awards Career Achievement and Leadership Semi Finalist through to an Australia Day Young Citizen of the Year.

Design is definitely his passion but seeing people develop and achieve is also something Callan keeps close to heart. Being a creative young business owner, and former state cyclist with five state champion titles, Callan knows all about motivation, determination, and success.

With the Frank Team, Callan has presented to young people around the country - facilitating programs for the Greater Southern TAFE Career Expo, the Australian Apprenticeships Roundtable, the Commonwealth Bank Foundation Start Smart Program and for youth groups, schools and committees from Tasmania to throughout South Australia.
